Estefani María Mendoza Osorio

Estefani María Mendoza Osorio Pay attention to details and work logically.

•Organization (I don't expect anything from anyone, I expect everything from myself) •Ability to multitask (It's going to happen, because I'm going to make it happen) •Good communication (I win. That's what I do) •Enthusiasm (Your client's success is your success) I'm trying to learn more about life experience. I don't think like a newbie, even if I am.

I want to advance my career as a connoisseur of life and its challenge / I think your company is very important in this sector.

I believe that my skills fit perfectly with your team and that I can contribute valuable ideas

Personal presentation This is a presentation. My name is Estefani Mendoza and I am writing to you with the purpose of presenting my professional and personal profile. I am a person passionate about teamwork, problem solving and constant learning. I consider myself a proactive, creative person who is committed to the goals I set for myself. My academic training includes a high school diploma and a current level of English B2 taken in languages at the University of EAFIT, and I am a student of a professional career, in this case the career is law at the UVM University in Venezuela. I have a type V visa that allows me to work here in the city of Medellín and my experience has also provided me with a solid foundation in areas such as management, strategic planning and leadership. During my career, I have had the opportunity to work in different sectors, which has allowed me to acquire a broad and global vision of organizations. I have developed skills in areas such as data analysis, project management and effective communication, which has allowed me to contribute significantly to the success of the teams in which I have worked. I also consider myself a person committed to personal and professional growth, so I am always looking for new learning and development opportunities. I am willing to face new challenges and contribute my knowledge and skills in a dynamic and collaborative work environment. I remain at your disposal to provide any further information you consider necessary and I would like to have the opportunity to be part of your team. Thank you very much if you consider my candidacy. Sincerely, Estefani Mendoza
